

The XM satellite radio is a great product and the XM radio system needs to have equal access and broadcasting rights. I find it un-American to restrict XM's ability to compete with regular Radio broadcasters. Do not restrict any form information broadcasting including weather or traffic reports.

Currently, I live near and work in New Orleans and can't wait until XM begins offering traffic reports for my location. When I go to regular radio stations for my traffic reports (WWL 870 New Orleans) They are not adequately provided. I normally have to listen to sports talk for 20 mins. (which is a waste of my time) to hopefully hear two minutes of traffic update. I usually give up and return to XM because by the time the traffic update is given I am in the middle of nasty traffic jam.

XM radio is the best thing for commuters since peanut butter and jelly. I will always be a grateful subscriber of XM radio and I recommend it to all of my friend. I occasionally hear regular radio station commercials slamming XM with negative commercials, and I am wondering what planet they are living on because their ads are totally false based on my experience.

Sincerely,

Richard Miller, Ph.D.
